PREAMBLE

Hong Kong has been part of China's territory since ancient times, but it was occupied by Britain after the Opium War in 1840. On 19 December 1984, the Chinese and British governments signed the Joint Declaration on the Question of Hong Kong, affirming that the Government of the People's Republic of China will resume the exercise of sovereignty over Hong Kong on 1 July 1997, thus fulfilling the long-cherished common aspiration of the entire Chinese people for the recovery of Hong Kong.

In order to uphold national unity and territorial integrity and to maintain Hong Kong's prosperity and stability, and taking account of the history of Hong Kong and its realities, the People's Republic of China has decided that upon China's resumption of the exercise of sovereignty over Hong Kong, a Hong Kong Special Administrative Region will be established in accordance with the provisions of Article 31 of the Constitution of the People's Republic of China and that under the principle of "one country, two systems", socialist system and policies will not be practised in Hong Kong. The basic policies of the People's Republic of China regarding Hong Kong have been elaborated by our government in the Sino-British Joint Declaration.

In accordance with the Constitution of the People's Republic of China, the National People's Congress hereby enacts the Basic Law of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China, prescribing the systems to be practised in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, in order to ensure the implementation of the basic policies of the People's Republic of China regarding Hong Kong.

The electoral college shall be composed of former members of the Legislative Council, former members of the Executive Council, former Chief Executives, and former principal officials appointed by the Central People's Government. The first electoral college cannot be formed with less than 250 members. The number may gradually increase in the successive electoral colleges, but shall not exceed 500. Once that number is exceeded, members will have to resign in the order of their length in office. If their length in office is the same, the member elder in age shall resign first.

Three candidates for the office of the Chief Executive shall be nominated by the advisory group and, after the approval of the Central People's Government, the Chief Executive shall be voted on by the electoral college.

Alternative 5

1. The Chief Executives shall be elected by all the voters of Hong Kong on a one-person-one-vote basis. Three candidates shall be nominated, through consultation [sic] or by ballot after consultation, by the "Nominating Committee for the Election of the Chief Executive of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region".
2. The "Nominating Committee" shall be composed of permanent residents of Hong Kong who must be broadly representative, including deputies of the Hong Kong region to the National People's Congress, members of the National Committee of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference from the Hong Kong region, representatives from Hong Kong's legislature and from district organizations, and from other strata and sections of society in Hong Kong.

6. The Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall stipulate by law the provisions for constituency registration and voting procedures for a one-person-one-vote general election of the Chief Executive.

Annex II Method for Constituting the Legislative Council of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region

Alternative 1

1. The legislature of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall be composed of 80 persons. The proportions of representation shall be as follows:

Members elected by functional bodies	50%
Members directly elected by districts	25%
Members elected by the electoral college	25%

2. The composition of the electoral body and the nominating committee shall be the same as that prescribed in Alternative 1, "Method for Selecting the Chief Executive of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region", and the chairman of the nominating committee shall be the Chief Executive.
3. In the above three types of election, each person can vote and stand for election only in one.
4. The term of office of the members of the legislature shall be four years, and half the members shall be elected every two years. The functional bodies shall elect half of their members to the legislature every two years. The direct election in the districts and the election by the electoral college shall be held alternately every two years, (District direct elections and elections of the Chief Executive shall take place in the same year.)
5. District direct elections: Hong Kong shall be divided into 10 constituencies, with two seats for each constituency, and the two candidates with the first and second highest number of votes shall be elected.
6. Detailed election rules shall be prescribed by the laws of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region.

1. 2. The direct election of the legislature must be genuine and held at regular intervals. The right to vote must be universal and equal. Election should be by secret ballot so as to ensure free expression of the will of the voters.
 3. Detailed rules for the election of the legislature shall be prescribed by the laws of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region.

Alternative 3

1. The legislature of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall have 60 members.
2. Thirty per cent of the members (i.e. 18 persons) shall be elected by the advisory group from among non-advisers. At least one-third of these members (i.e. 6 persons) shall be principal officials, and the rest (around two-thirds) shall be members of the Executive Council and other public figures. (Members of the legislature elected by the advisory group must include members of the Executive Council and principal officials so as to strengthen the links between the executive and the legislature.)
3. Forty per cent of the members (i.e. 24 persons) shall be elected by functional bodies.
4. Thirty per cent of the members shall be elected directly by the districts. The members of the legislature directly elected and those elected by the advisory group shall be roughly the same in numbers and shall be elected roughly at the same time, so that balance can be maintained. (Unless the method of the election by the advisory group is accepted, direct election cannot be held.)
5. The two election methods stated above in paragraphs 3 and 4 shall be prescribed in detail by law.

Alternative 4

1. The composition of the legislature of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall be as follows:

From business circles	30%
From the professions	25%
From grass-roots organizations	20%
Through district general elections	25%

2. The composition is thus divided into four major categories. The first three major categories are further divided into sub-categories according to trades or professions. The delimitation of each sub-category and the number of members it elects to the legislature shall be prescribed by the laws of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region.

All members of the legislature who belong to the three major categories shall be elected from corporate bodies in accordance with law.

According to the assigned number of seats, each corporate body shall decide on its own which of the following methods to adopt for electing its members to the legislature:

 - (1) Each member is directly elected on a one-person-one-vote basis;
 - (2) Members from its subsidiaries are elected through indirect election on a one-unit-one-vote basis; and
 - (3) The general membership conference authorizes a council to elect members through indirect election.
3. The division of the district constituencies, the voter registration, the voting procedures, and the nomination of candidate in district general elections shall be prescribed by the laws of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region.

(Notes)

1. The members who put forward Alternatives 1 and 3 maintained that their proposed methods for electing members of the legislature are "package" deals, that is to say, direct district election is conditional upon the acceptance [sic] of the other two types of election.
2. Some members proposed that all the members of the legislature of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region be elected by the functional bodies and that the method of election by the functional bodies be the same as that in Alternative 3 in Annex I.
3. A member proposed that all the members of the legislature of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region be elected by districts through direct election on a one-person-one-vote basis. The election of the legislature must be genuine and held at regular intervals. The right to vote must be universal and equal. The election must be by secret ballot so as to ensure free expression of the will of the voters.
4. A member proposed that the method of general election on a one-person-one-vote basis should be considered together with the question of nationality, and studies must be made on the right to vote and to stand for election of Hong Kong permanent residents who have moved to a foreign country (but might not have acquired foreign nationality).

Annex III Method for the Formation of the First Government and the First Legislative Council of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region

1. The proportions of the composition of the "Election Committee" are tentatively proposed as follows:

Persons from business and financial circles	25%
Professionals	25%
Persons from labour, grass-roots and religious organizations	25%
Political figures of former times	20%
Deputies to the National People's Congress and members of the National Committee of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference	5%

3. The "Election Committee" shall formulate procedures and accordingly recommend the candidate for the first Chief Executive through local consultation or through local election after consultation, and report the recommended Chief Executive to the Central People's Government for appointment. The term of office of the first Chief Executive shall be the normal term.
4. The Chief Executive of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall be responsible for preparing the election of the first government of the region according to this Law.
5. The first (or provisional) legislature of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall be elected by the "Election Committee". All members of the former Hong Kong Legislative Council can be candidates for membership in the first (or provisional) legislature of the Region.
The term of office of members of the first (or provisional) legislature of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall be two years.
6. The first Chief Executive of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall be sworn in to office on 1 July 1997. On 1 July 1997, the first government and legislature of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall be inaugurated simultaneously.

Notes

1. The members proposed that a map showing the administrative boundaries of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region be published by the State Council when the Basic Law is promulgated by the National People's Congress.
2. The proposal on the establishment of the Committee for the Basic Law of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region put forward by the Sub-group on the Relationship Between the Central Authorities and the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region reads as follows:

- of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region are in conformity with the Basic Law and legal procedures (Article 16 of the Draft Basic Law for Solicitation of Opinions);
- (b) Questions relating to the applicability of nation-wide laws in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region (Article 17);

 - (4) Those departments whose work is relatively independent shall be called shu, or "commissions" in English, such as the Commission against Corruption and the Commission of Audit.
4. The members held that in general, principal officials should be selected from among public servants. However, they can also be selected from among prominent members of society other than public servants. Principal officials of the latter type would be remunerated as public servants working on contract. They would leave the service on expiry of their terms of office. Transfers of principal officials and increase of officials of the Secretary level must be reported to the Central People's Government for approval.

5. The members agree that the English translation of (立法會議) shall continue to be "Legislative Council".
6. Whether or not members of the legislature should be required to resign after being appointed principal officials in the executive authorities remains to be studied.

Other members of the judiciary include magistrates of magistrates' courts and presiding officers at special tribunals. Other persons working in the judiciary are considered public servants.

The power of supervision over the implementation of this Law shall be vested in the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress. Any executive, legislative or judicial act which exceeds the powers authorized by this Law may be declared null and void by the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress."

1. A member proposed that the Paragraph be revised to read: "If the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress, after consulting the Committee for the Basic Law of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, considers any law of the Region not to be in conformity with this Law or legal procedures, it may refer the law in question to the Court of Final Appeal for its consideration. If the court considers the law or a “Laws enacted by the National People’s Congress or its Standing Committee shall not apply in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region except for those relating to defence and foreign affairs and other matters which, according to the provisions of this Law, are outside the limits of the high degree of autonomy of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region.

“Whenever there is need to apply in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region any of the above-mentioned laws concerning defence and foreign affairs, they shall be applied by way of legislation by the legislature of the Region on the directives of the Standing Committee of the National People’s Congress.

“Except in cases of emergency, the Standing Committee of the National People’s Congress shall consult its Committee for the Basic Law of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region and the government of the Region before issuing the above-mentioned directives.

The courts of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall seek the advice of the Chief Executive when questions mentioned in Clauses (1) to (4) arise in any legal proceedings. A statement issued by the Chief Executive regarding the matter shall be binding on the courts.

Before issuing such a statement, the Chief Executive shall obtain a certificate from the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress or the State Council.

(Explanatory note: The types of cases listed in the Clauses (1) to (4) above are not suitable for a court under a local government to try, although the court enjoys power of final adjudication.)

Alternative 2

The courts of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall have jurisdiction over all cases in the Region, except that the restrictions of their jurisdiction imposed by Hong Kong's previous legal system and principles shall be maintained.

The courts of Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall seek the advice of the Chief Executive in accordance with the principles and legal precedents of the common law when questions concerning foreign affairs and defence arise in any legal proceedings. A statement issued by the Chief Executive regarding such questions shall be binding on the courts.

In accordance with the assigned number of seats and the election procedures specified by the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress, Chinese nationals who are permanent residents of the Region shall elect Chinese nationals of the same status to be deputies of the Region to the National People's Congress.

Article 31

1. Some members proposed that a third paragraph be added to this Article: "No person shall be subject to discrimination or impairment of his/her civil rights on grounds of religious belief."
2. Some members proposed that the Article be rewritten as follows:
"Residents of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region shall have the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. Article 41

A member proposed that this Article be revised to read: "Persons in Hong Kong other than Hong Kong residents shall, in accordance with law, enjoy the rights and freedoms (except the right to vote and to stand for election) of Hong Kong residents prescribed in this Chapter." After deliberation the Subgroup on the Fundamental Rights and Duties of the Residents found that apart from the right to vote and to stand for election, there are a few other rights, such as the rights to free entry into Hong Kong, which "other persons" cannot enjoy. The Article thus remains unchanged.

CHAPTER IV

Article 43

A member proposed that this Article be revised to read: "The Chief Executive of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region is the head of the Region and the head of the executive organs of the Region, representing the Region and leading its executive organs, and shall be accountable to the Central People's Government, the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, and the legislature of the Region in accordance with the provisions of this Law."

Some members held that the term of office of the Chief Executive should be considered in conjunction with the term of office of members of the legislature. The term of office for both should be four years, and the Chief Executive may serve two consecutive terms.

Article 47

Some members pointed out that the question of restrictions on the occupation of retired Chief Executives and principal officials has yet to be studied. A member proposed adding the following content to this Article: "The Chief Executive, on assuming office, must resign from all other positions with pay or remuneration."

A member proposed that this Clause be revised to read: "To approve (or to disapprove) public officers appearing before committees under the legislature to testify or to give evidence with regard to matters relating to the navy, army or air force, the security of Hong Kong, or the responsibility of the Central People's Government over the administration of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region.

A member proposed that the following paragraph be added: "To exercise other powers, which are necessary and reasonable for carrying out his duties." Another member proposed that it be revised to read: "To exercise other powers prescribed in this Law."

Article 52

A member held that a Clause (4) should be added to this Article: "When vote of non-confidence is passed against the Chief Executive by a two-thirds majority of the members of the legislature." Another member held that if such a provision were to be included in the Article, it should specify that the Chief Executive could dissolve the legislature after its vote of non-confidence against him, but the Chief Executive would have to resign if the newly-elected legislature again cast a vote of non-confidence.

Article 54

A member did not agree to the establishment of an Executive Council.

Article 55

1. Some members held that to serve on the Executive Council members of the legislature had to be elected by the legislature and eminent members of the public required the endorsement of over half of the members of the legislature. Another member held that without an election by the legislature, members could not serve on the Executive Council.
2. As to the size of the Executive Council and whether there is a need for a proportion of its composition, a member held that the Council should be composed entirely of principal officials; another member held that at least half of the membership of the Council should be members of the legislature. Members agreed that no stipulations would be made for the time being pending further study.

Article 58

A member proposed that this Article be rewritten as follows: "The Chief Executive may appoint or remove the Commissioner of Audit with the approval of the legislature of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region. Article 62

A member proposed adding a Clause (6): "Other powers which are necessary and reasonable for carrying out its duties in accordance with the provisions of this Law."

Article 64

Some members did not agree to the use of the colon after "accountable . . . in the following respects" on the ground that the scope of matters for which the executive authorities are accountable would be wider than that covered by this Article.

They proposed that this Article be revised to read: "The executive authorities of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region must abide by the law and shall be accountable to the legislature of the Region. They shall (1) implement laws passed by the legislature and already in force; (2) present regular reports on their work to the legislature; (3) be subject to supervision by the legislature; (4) answer questions raised by members of the legislature, and be subject to or assist in investigations by the legislature on special issues; and (5) obtain approval from the legislature for taxation and public expenditure, and be subject to supervision by the legislature in respect to public expenditure."

Article 66

Some members proposed that a second paragraph be added to this Article: "The legislative power of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region is vested in the legislature of the Region." However, a mem-

But most members did not agree.
2. Some members believed that the proportions as prescribed by Clause (9) are too low, and the wording also contains some faults. They proposed rewriting the Clause to read: "If over 50 per cent of all the members of the legislature suspect the Chief Executive of being guilty of serious breach of law or dereliction of duty, a joint motion can be proposed to establish an independent investigating committee in accordance with law. This committee, headed by the Chief Justice of the Court of Final Appeal, shall be responsible for carrying out investigations and reporting its findings to the legislature. If the committee considers the evidence sufficient, the legislature may pass motion of impeachment with a three-quarters majority and report it to the Central People's Government."

Article 72

1. A member proposed the inclusion of the following clause: "The legislature and its subordinate committees shall have the power to summon the person concerned to appear before them to testify and give evidence.”

2. A member proposed that a provision for the establishment of standing committees and ad hoc committees should be added to this Article. But another member held that such a provision should be covered by the standing orders of the legislature.

Article 73

A member held that bills relating to public expenditure of public policies should be jointly proposed by no less than one-tenth of the members of the legislature, but that the prior written consent of the Chief Executive should not be required.

Article 74

Some members pointed out that the quorum for meetings of the legislature could be less than half but no less than one-third of its total members and that it would not be easy to call a meeting if the quorum was set too high.

Article 84

A member proposed that after the phrase “free from any interference” in this Article, the following words should be added: “but subject to the supervision of the Standing Committee of the National People’s Congress in regard to the question of whether the jurisdiction stipulated by this Law has been exceeded”.

Article 86

A member proposed that the principles and rights mentioned in this Article should be specified in an appendix.

Article 87

1. A member pointed out that it was not desirable to have too many members in the independent commission and that its recommendations should be made with unanimity.
2. Some members pointed out that this Law should specifically provide for the independent finance of or special appropriation of funds for the judicial organs.

Article 100

1. A member suggested that it might not be necessary to exclude foreign nationals from consideration for the post of Deputy Director for Civil Service.
2. A member pointed out that whether the posts of the Commission of Immigration and Inspector General of Customs and Excise should be subject to restriction could be further considered, since these two posts were not ranked at Secretary level.

CHAPTER IX

Article 169

A member proposed that the Article be revised as follows: "The power of interpretation of this Law is vested in the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress. The courts of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region may interpret all the provisions of this Law.

"Regarding the provisions which are within the limits of the autonomy of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress will grant full power to the courts of the Region to interpret them when adjudicating cases.

"When the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress makes an interpretation of a provision of this Law which is outside the limits of the autonomy of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, the courts of the Region, in applying such a provision, shall follow the interpretation of the Standing Committee. However, cases under adjudication and judgments previously rendered shall not be affected.

"The Standing Committee of the National People's Congress shall consult its Committee for the Basic Law of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region before giving an interpretation of this Law.
